M'KINLEY AND ROOSEVELT CHOSEN TO LEAD REPUBLICAN HOSTS IN MARCH TO VICTORY.

"Rough Rider" Is the Unanimous Choice of the Great Convention to be the Running Mate of the President.

WILLIAM M'KINLEY.

THEODORE ROOSEVELT.

Enthusiasm Bursts All Bounds When With One Accord Delegates Unite and Select the Men to Head the Party.

The Republican National Convention today nominated M'Kinley and Roosevelt for President and Vice-President, and then adjourned sine die. Though the Convention's action was a foregone conclusion, the proceedings today were the most exciting of the session. Senator Foraker nominated M'Kinley, and his fiery eloquence set the crowd wild with enthusiasm. As Mr. Foraker concluded his speech by naming M'Kinley as the Republican Party's standard-bearer, a tremendous demonstration followed that showed how strong and deep is the President's hold on his party. McKinley received every vote cast in the Convention. There was no man in the race for the Vice-Presidency today but Roosevelt. His rivals, realizing the utter hopelessness of their trying to make any headway against Roosevelt's overwhelming popularity, withdrew from the fight last night. The name of the "Rough Rider" was the only one presented today. He was put in nomination by Colonel Young of Iowa, in an eloquent speech, and, after several seconding speeches, he was nominated unanimously. A cyclone of applause followed the announcement of the vote, and Roosevelt was showered with congratulations, while the great hall rang with the cheers of his frantic admirers.

A striking feature of the day's proceedings was Roosevelt's stirring speech seconding the nomination of McKinley. After the convention adjourned the National Committee met and re-elected Senator Hanna as Chairman of the Committee for the next four years.

ELOQUENCE MARKS THE LAST DAY.

CONVENTION CROWDS ASTIR AT EARLY HOUR.

The program today is the most attractive one of the session, with the nominating speeches and the two nominations by acclamation. The Convention gets under way at an early hour—10 o'clock, so that definite results may be expected at a comparatively early hour. The early start put the Convention crowds in motion at an early hour, and there was a renewal of the bustle and excitement of the last few days in and about the Convention Hall.

Governor Roosevelt appeared at his headquarters at an earlier hour this morning than usual. He was brighter and looked less worried than for many days and he had lost that air of petulance that has marked his demeanor for the past forty-eight hours.

He was kept busy for awhile making preparations for his departure to his home, and then he saw the newspapermen.

Although he had undoubtedly made up his mind that nothing could stop his nomination, he still asserted that he had declared his final judgment on the matter of acceptance. He came to the Convention Hall with Senator Depew and B.

ROOSEVELT AND HANNA IN CLOSE CONFERENCE.

A few minutes later another outburst greeted the entrance of Senator Hanna. His progress was impeded all the way down the aisle by delegates who insisted upon shaking hands. He stopped a moment to chat with Senator Davis and when he reached the standard of the New York delegation, where Roosevelt was waiting reception, he pushed through the throng and greeted the Rough Rider warmly, even affectionately. With his hand upon Roosevelt's shoulder, he whispered in his ear. For two minutes they remained thus in close communication.

Depew created a stir a little later, but it was Matthew Quay who aroused the shouts of the local crowd. Henry Cabot Lodge, the permanent chairman, reached the conference of the leaders in full view of the vast audience. Colonel Dick, looking more like a poet than a soldier, Mark Hanna, Senator Chandler, Julius Caesar Burrows, Mayor Ashbridge, Chas. Emory Smith, John Lynch, the colored ex-Congressman from Mississippi and the band were busy perfecting the final plans for the day.

At 10:20 the big band from Canton, Ohio, the President's home, made its way into the hall from the west side and broke out with the pealing strains of the national anthem. The whole audience rose to its feet and stood until it was concluded. The Canton band is one of the most popular organizations of its kind in the United States. It is here on the day of the nomination of McKinley at the President's own request, and he regards the band as his "mascot." Heretofore in his Congressional, gubernatorial contests and in 1896, in his national contest, the band played him to victory. When it was suggested that the band could not be present, the President insisted that it should be, and at his request the noted organization was engaged.

Through the pit a squad of men were busy distributing great stands of red, white and blue pampas plumes, which later on were to cut a big feature in the demonstration. Picturesquely dignified and with a rather incongruous setting, they stood on the platform during the preliminaries. Archbishop Ryan of the Roman Catholic See at Philadelphia, his ascetic face, above the purple and black robes of his clerical office, stood out like a figure from the group of politicians of all classes and colors and in all manner of dress. He chatted pleasantly with those about him and rose promptly from his seat when the first notes of the "Star Spangled Banner" sounded.

Among the early arrivals in the hall was Mrs. Roosevelt. She sat in the front row on the west side of the hall, immediately to the left of the first row of delegates. Accompanying her were Mrs. William J. Young, wife of the Governor's private secretary, and Professor Nicholas Murray Butler of Columbia University of New York. Mrs. Roosevelt was the cynosure of thousands of eyes.

IMPRESSIVE OPENING OF LAST SESSION.

At 10:30 Chairman Lodge, with three rays of his historic gavel, stilled the tumult on the floor, while the band ushered in the session with the national anthem. Senator Hanna being among the first to rise, as the anthem closed the chairman announced the opening invocation by Archbishop Ryan.

The distinguished prelate wore the superb robe of his high station, falling to his feet, and open in front, showing the heavy chain and cross emblematic of his seat. He paused until the assemblage had risen and bowed their heads, and then in his strong, rich voice rolled out a prayer filled with a sentiment of the deep responsibility resting upon the party here assembled.

When the striking figure of the Archbishop at the finish of the prayer disappeared on the stage, the vast assemblage sank to its seats and the gavel fell to make quiet for the more practical work of the convention.

Senator Lodge called attention to Louisiana having been omitted from the roll call for national committeemen, and that was corrected.

Alabama also named its selections, having failed to do so yesterday.

The chair then laid the amendment to the rules offered yesterday by Mr. Quay as the unfinished business before the convention.

As the cheers died away at the mention of Quay's name, the short and stubby figure of the Pennsylvania arose in the middle aisle. In a thin voice, barely heard at the platform, Mr. Quay announced the withdrawal of the amendment proposing a change in rules 1 and 12, referring to representation in national conventions. This was accepted by Southern delegates as a concession to them, and they rose en masse, cheering wildly.

Now Mr. Lodge advanced to the front of the platform and a thrill went through the vast audience as he announced:

"Under the rules, nominations for the office of President of the United States are now in order."

There was a momentary shout which the chairman punctured:

"The State of Alabama is recognized."

A tall and swarthy Alabamian stood on his chair and by pre-arrangement answered:

"Alabama yields to Ohio."

FORAKER RISES TO PUT M'KINLEY IN NOMINATION.

This was the signal for the recognition of Senator Foraker, who was to make the speech nominating Mr. McKinley as the Republican candidate for President. Then the cheers began and a wild scene ensued.

Amidst a tumult of applause Senator Foraker went to the platform and when quiet was restored began to speak, first thanking Alabama for its courtesy in yielding, but attributing that fact to the overwhelming popularity of the candidate.

"Mr. Chairman and Gentlemen of the Convention—Alabama yields to Ohio, and I thank Alabama for that accommodation. Alabama has so yielded, however by reason of a fact that would seem in an important sense to make the duty that has been assigned to me a superfluous duty, for Alabama has yielded because of the fact that our candidate for the Presidency has in fact been already nominated. (Applause.) He was nominated by the distinguished Senator from Colorado, when he assumed the duties of temporary chairman. He was nominated again yesterday by the distinguished Senator from Massachusetts when he took the office of permanent chairman, and he was nominated a third time when the Senator from Indiana yesterday read the platform. (Applause.) And not only has he been thus nominated by this convention, but he has also been nominated by the whole American people. (Applause.) From one end of this land to the other, in every mind is only one and the same man thought of for the honor which we are about to confer, and that

GRAVITY OF THE CHINESE CRISIS.

Senator Davis Thinks
the Situation Full of Danger.

Associated Press Dispatches by The Tribune's Special Leased Wire.
PHILADELPHIA, June 21.—In the opinion of Senator Davis of Minnesota, chairman of the Senate Committee on Foreign Affairs, the situation in China is even more grave than published dispatches would indicate, and may develop into an international problem such as the powers have not had to deal with in many years.

"No man can tell what will come out of the present situation in China," said Senator Davis. "I shall be agreeably disappointed if the immediate consequence does not result in complications which will take years to straighten out. Moreover, generations to come may find that in awakening China the Western world has brought into existence a giant which will insist on taking part in affairs at inopportune moments."

"That the powers are in a dilemma which they would have been glad to avoid is taken for granted. It seems inevitable that China will be partitioned.
Certainly the acting Empress will be dethroned. This cannot be done without a war, which will probably repeat itself
many times."

"It must be remembered, too, that in China lives fully one-fourth of the world's population. The people there have a civilization of a certain sort that was in existence when the world was suckling Romulus. Until now the power of China has been so small that it has not been if we force upon the yellow race our methods, and in China they are accepted as readily as they have been in Japan, we will create a force which will be sure to work a great influence upon the future history of the world. I look upon the present crisis as more important than that which has arisen since our own civil war."

DENTISTS ENGAGE IN BITTER CONTEST.

A contest is on in the convention of the California State Dental Association, now being held in San Francisco, over the election of president. The candidates are Dr. A. F. Merriman Jr. of Oakland and Dr. L. B. Fisher, both of San Francisco.
Dr. Merriman is a present vice-president of the association and he seems to have the stronger following.

FIGHTING ON AT TIENTSIN.

Foreign Settlement at That Place Laid in Ashes by the Boxers.

LONDON, June 21.—3:40 p. m.—The Admiralty has received the following dispatch from Rear Admiral Bruce:
"TAKU, June 21.—No communications from Tientsin in five days. The allies hold the Taku forts and Taku securely, and they will advance to the relief of the Tientsin when in sufficient strength. Troops are expected from Hongkong tomorrow and 200 from Val de Vail the following day. It is believed that fighting is continuing proceeding around Tientsin. Our garrison there should be about 300 men.
The following proclamation was agreed to today to be issued forthwith:
"The Admirals and senior naval officers of the allied powers in China desire to make known to all Viceroy and authorities along the coast and rivers and in the cities and provinces of China that they desire to use only force only against the Boxers and people that oppose them on their march to Peking for the rescue of their fellow-countrymen.

The date that above dispatch was sent off from Taku is not given, but it is probably June 19.

BERLIN, June 21.—A semi-official dispatch from Tokyo, dated June 21, says the Japanese Consul at Shanghai confirms the report that Vice-Admiral Seymour has arrived at Peking and that the members of the diplomatic corps are safe.
According to an official Japanese report from Chiao-Poo, the foreign settlement at Tien Tsin was reduced to ashes June 19.

Lodge announced that Roosevelt had received 25 votes, and delegate in the convention not voting. This delegate was Governor Roosevelt himself, who returned from voting with the New York delegation.

Chairman Lodge's announcement that Governor Roosevelt had been nominated for Vice President evoked a burst of applause that fairly shook the great steel girders of the building to its foundations.
Governor Roosevelt, now the candidate for Vice President, was surrounded by hundreds showering congratulations upon him.

He stood in the middle aisle, the stern look of recent days having given way to an expansive smile.
The serious work of the convention was now practically over and only a few delegates remained to be perfected. A resolution by General Grover was agreed to for an official print of the convention proceedings and a reprint of the proceedings and a reprint of the proceedings.
The delegates were in a happy and smiling mood. The demonstration continued for six minutes and forty seconds, during which time Governor Roosevelt received congratulations from his friends, looking the while like a bronze statue, so imperturbable was he. The delegate, who spoke in behalf of the Governor's nomination, was recognized Butler Murray of Massachusetts for a speech seconding the nomination of Roosevelt. He spoke in behalf of "Old New England" and his vigorous sentences elicited another demonstration for the Rough Rider candidate.

NEW YORK, June 21.—In interviews with travelers and business men who have recently come to New York from China, missionaries have often been blamed for causing, perhaps unconsciously, strife between the native and foreign Chinese. Ernest De Boyer of the Shanghai has spoken on this subject in this way:
When a local mandarin imposes taxes,
even if they are excessive, the heathen Chinese pay them. The native Christians, however, whenever they imagine themselves ground down by unjust taxation run with their troubles to the nearest missionary. These missionaries, instead of going to the local authorities with their complaints, take the matter over with them and making a satisfactory arrangement in that way, almost invariably write to their national Ministers. Peking and ask that redress be obtained for the members of their flocks. Complaint is made to the Minister at the Tsingtau, which, to avoid serious end-matters by reducing the Christians taxes. This practice cannot fail to cause envy and jealousy, and thus let off from the duties of the Empire which the Chinese have to perform.
The date that above dispatch was sent
off from Taku is not given, but it is probably June 19.

June 21—Swedish American Patriotic League Celebration to 11 P. M.

THURSDAY, JUNE 21, 1900.

McKinley's real running mate is prosperity.

McKinley and Roosevelt. It sounds all right and is all right.

It is a sixteen to one campaign, with Bryan on the short end.

The Democratic tiger shies at Roosevelt's teeth. The beast has felt the fangs before.

Good business is good politics this year. Heavy bank clearings are indicative of heavy Republican majorities.

The elephant is all right with McKinley and Roosevelt on his back. While the band plays the procession will now move to the White House.

Senator Platt of New York is having trouble with one of his sons. This seems to corroborate the statement that the "love" of his political career has arrived.

It is not hard to figure why the French Commissioners refuse to judge the American wine display at the fair. Comparisons are too likely to prove odious—for them.

A barber has levanted down South with several hundred dollars belonging to his employer. That particular business is more or less associated with sharp practices, anyhow.

A coach upon which $700 duty had to be paid has just arrived at Berkeley from England. In order to avoid misapprehension, it is as well to mention that it differs from the University coaches in that it carries its wheels underneath instead of on top.

One of the sensational South African war correspondents says that death from a Mauser bullet is no more painful than the agony attending having a tooth pulled. We would like to know his source of information—it does not appear to be even as substantial as that incompetent form of testimony known as hearsay.

THE NATIONAL PLATFORM.

The Republican platform is a business-like document. In temper and tone it is in admirable harmony with the political situation and the character of the campaign before us. It is addressed to the sober judgment of the country. No appeals are made to party or sectional prejudice, and there is none of the pointing-with-pride and viewing-with-alarm so characteristic of the old-style political platform. Its breadth of spirit and temperate expression will meet with general approval.

In short, it has been drafted with the wise and patriotic purpose of arousing the sympathetic interest of all the elements in the country which stand for the preservation of social order and the maintenance of sound business conditions. Evidently its framers were deeply imbued with the high responsibilities resting upon the Republican party at this time. No stronger reason for popular trust could be put forward than this patriotic sense of responsibility, for the Republican party has never had a more imperative need for wise and resolute statesmanship since it saved the Union.

Now as during the Civil War the party stands for national honor and unity, for the glory of the flag and the integrity of our free institutions, for the rights of the citizen and the security of property. In the light of the conditions confronting the Nation, the platform embodies a policy that cannot fail to bring forth the results desired. Behind it is the record of promises fulfilled and pledges redeemed. And in retrospect is the four years of nightmare when the disorganized and factional opposition controlled the Government. Of necessity the platform would not be complete without a comparison of the conditions prevailing now and those under which the country groaned from 1892 till 1897. Broken promises and general imbecility have been succeeded by faithful performance and a restoration of those sound principles of finance and administration which alone can bring public confidence. The instrumentalities of government have been used to restore the normal conditions of a prosperous society and the national credit strengthened till it stands first today in the exchanges of the world.

No Republican platform would be complete without a eulogy of protection which has done so much to foster American industry and enlarge our national wealth and enterprise. The Philadelphia platform does this and points to the results of the gold standard as a vindication of its wisdom. Viewed in this light certainly no greater vindication could be had. A swelling volume of currency with a constantly lowering interest-rate, coupled with unprecedented commercial and industrial activity is a condition before which all arguments fall and all theories fail. It is as life compared to death, and no amount of Bryanite eulogy of the corpse will induce the American people to again resume the shroud to test a policy that has once proved a disastrous failure.

The platform declares for the construction of the Nicaragua canal and voices disapproval of the disfranchisement of colored voters by legal legislation as practiced in certain States. While pledging full security to capital in all legitimate avenues of investment the platform declares against all combinations of capital which endeavor to crush competition and pledges the party to legislation that will protect the public against the exactions of the trusts. The Philippines are promised the largest measure of self-government consistent with their welfare and our duties shall be secured to them by law, and the pledge of independence to Cuba is re-affirmed.

This is enough. It is all that can be required and will meet to the full popular expectation and approval.

MCKINLEY.

How futile are the machinations of mere politicians when opposed to high purpose and a genius for statecraft! When a Democratic legislature in Ohio gerrymandered the apportionment to prevent McKinley's return to Congress it was fondly supposed that he had been permanently disposed of. That was in 1890, ten short years ago. The House of Representatives was overwhelmingly Democratic and in the succeeding election of 1892, both the Presidency and the Senate passed into the control of the party that had gerrymandered McKinley out of public life.

It seemed as if the policies and ideas which McKinley so conspicuously represented and so ably advocated had gone into complete eclipse. The revenue act which bore McKinley's name was used as a byword and reproach by the opposition, and in revenue legislation the Democrats went to the antithesis of every principle which had governed the framing of the McKinley Bill.

Nevertheless the author of that measure calmly insisted that time would vindicate the wisdom of his acts.

All this is but as yesterday, and the vindication has come. Amid the plaudits of thousands, McKinley was today re-nominated by acclamation at Philadelphia. No candidate appeared against him, no politician dared whisper a word in opposition. From Governor to President sprang the defeated and retired Congressmen, and with the rejuvenescence of his discarded policy came a recrudescence of national prosperity. Popular confidence has been extended to him in a measure bestowed upon no Washington and Lincoln. His ideas are triumphant in the public mind. No other man, save Jefferson, has so fixed the impress of his thought on the legislation of the country and the policy of his party. By the masses he is regarded in the light of a benefactor and by the great body of thoughtful men as the embodiment of conservative statesmanship. In the roar of popular approval from one end of the country to the other which greets the acclaim of the Philadelphia convention no one remembers the famous gerrymander of 1890 and its contemptible authors.

At the summit of American ambition with an administrative historic, epochal, and successful beyond the hopes of even the most ardent admirers, President McKinley can look back over his political struggles, with their temporary failure, with a satisfaction seldom vouchsafed a public man in a popular government. Such a personal and political vindication has never been given a man in this country. The Republican party has been rarely fortunate in its leader and the country thrice-blessed in its President. The election next November will be but a ratification of the nomination.

The proposition to consolidate Oakland, Alameda, Emeryville, Berkeley and San Francisco is good enough as far as it goes, but why stop so short? San Jose, Bakersfield and Los Angeles might just as well have been included, for all the chance there is of effecting such a union. THE TRIBUNE, however, is in favor of the proposition with one proviso—that the composite city be called Oakland.

The man that routed the Spanish at San Juan Hill and whipped the Tammany tiger in New York is a good yokel-fellow for McKinley.

COLD CURE

ROOSEVELT.

Theodore Roosevelt is the most striking individuality in public life. There is a vitality, a breezy personal independence and a freedom from conventional restraints about him that appeals powerfully to the popular fancy and makes him an inspiring figure to the younger generation of voters.

If any man can add strength to a ticket with McKinley at its head Roosevelt is that man. He is bold, brave, original and honest. Withal he is able and versatile. As a hunter of wild game in the Rocky Mountains he led the chase with the hardest mountaineers. As a writer he has caught the spirit of the larger life of the great West with rare fidelity. When he led the charge on San Juan Hill he filled the ideal of the American volunteer soldier, and when he struck at the red tape of military regulations which prevented the prompt succor of the sick and wounded his pluck excited general admiration. His brilliant campaign for Governor of New York enhanced his popularity, and his unrivaled of the Tammany tiger is still the theme of joyful remembrance. He is the incarnation of the fighting spirit that furks in the American blood. His gameness and quickness of perception make him formidable in whatever field he enters, and his bubbling energy imparts life and vigor to whatever he touches. His brief term as Assistant Secretary of the Navy was marked by conspicuous and beneficial results. That short experience made him the idol of the navy.

His varied and attractive personality will stir enthusiasm and add a sparkle and dash to the campaign that will be as stimulating as new wine. The stately figure of President McKinley will be admirably set off by the bold soldier Governor of the Empire State, a broth of a boy, game to the core and a clean American to his finger tips.

HAWAIIANS ARE SATISFIED.

The most assuring news that has attended the political development of Hawaii is contained in the reports of the attitude assumed by the native party. Although as a result of the form of government bestowed upon the islands by Congress the political lines have divided there upon the basis of Republicanism and Democracy, the native element naturally had nothing in common with either party, and it was feared might stand aloof in a manner that would be a source of continual disquietude.

All fears as to this are, however, now set at rest, for the return to her former domain of ex-Queen Liliuokalani has proved the means of establishing a policy that will beyond doubt be strictly maintained in the future. Her arrival at her island home was, according to advices just received from Honolulu, the occasion for a gathering of representative natives, including her former counselors and advisers and those whose fealty to monarchical traditions has not yet passed away. The attitude to be assumed by this element was then discussed and the ex-Queen took a stand that shows her to be a woman of better judgment than most people have given her credit for. She impressed upon her friends the necessity of eliminating from their calculations as to the future any thought of the probability of a return of the old regime, and added: "When our flag came down it was forever, and from now on we must all be good American citizens." Further discussion resulted in a determination to form a political organization to be known as the native or Hawaiian party, with the object not of being a disturbing element, but so as to assure co-operation whenever any legislation was presented affecting native interests. Apart from this feature, it was decided to assimilate in every way with the new conditions and to uphold every move for the common good.

The Hawaiian problem can therefore be declared finally settled and in a manner satisfactory to the fullest extent. Had the natives determined to oppose politically the new order of things, there is no doubt that unfortunate developments would have resulted, for professional white agitators would have used them to back up any movement that might be inaugurated against conditions it was desired to upset. Now, however, that the Hawaiians have cast their lot in favor of peace and prosperity, it is certain that henceforth the islands will be one of the most tranquil and easily governed parts of the union. Benefits without number will be showered down upon the islanders in consequence, and we, too, will reap a rich share of the good fortune, for the sensible policy of the "Hawaiian party" assures to us the fullest and best returns from our fruitful territory in the mid-Pacific.

It will indeed be strange if the foreign fleets can continue the attack upon China without quarreling among themselves. Sooner or later some question of precedence or other official nonsense will arise, and then China can sit back and laugh as she watches the dogs of war too busily engaged in fighting each other to be able to pay any attention to her affairs.

We gather that the Democrats object to the proceedings at Philadelphia. The objection is overruled and business will proceed as usual.

The First Baby.

When baby comes to the home it will bind the wife closer to the husband, or it will gradually tend to cut her off from his companionship. A sickly mother loses in physical charm, and often in temper and disposition. A fretful child is a trial, even to loving parents. The use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription prepares the wife for motherhood. It strengthens the body, and induces a healthy condition of mind, free from anxiety or fear. It makes the baby's advent practically painless. The mother being healthy her child is healthy, and a healthy child is a happy child, a joy to the parents, linking them together with a new bond of affection.

There is no opium, cocaine or other narcotic in "Favorite Prescription." I read what your medicine has done for other people, writes Mrs. Edwin H. Gardner, of Haverhill, Norfolk Co., Mass., Box 70, "so thought I would try it, and I found it a blessing to me and family. I took your medicine a year when I had a ten pound girl. I had the easiest time I ever had with any of my three children, and I have been very well ever since. I took three bottles of Favorite Prescription, three of Golden Medical Discovery, and three of 'Pills.' I lost 122 pounds, and now I weigh 175 pounds."

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure sick headache.

Economy and the desire to establish better educational facilities for the school children has caused the Alameda Board of Education to abolish the public school at Bay Farm Island. In future the pupils who have been attending the school will be taken from their homes in an omnibus to the Wilson School, which affords better accommodations.

A GRATEFUL WOMAN

I feel that it is my duty to you and the many sick and suffering in our State to let them know what your wonderful medicine did for me. I am now 53 years old and have lived in Los Angeles for many years and am well now. I have suffered a number of years with rheumatism and stomach troubles in their worst form. I had tried many remedies without any benefit, when a neighbor of mine, Mr. E. A. Foreman, brought me a bottle of Electrozone and told me it would cure me if I took it according to directions. I commenced to improve from the first day's use. I have taken the one bottle, the pains are all gone and my stomach troubles have all disappeared. I eat whatever I please with impunity, sleep well and walk long distances without fatigue. I fail to find words in which to express my gratefulness to you for what your medicine has done for me. You may refer any one to me for proof of the above, being ever grateful to you and Mr. Foreman for the benefit received. Yours truly,
MRS. M. A. HINDS,

KIDNEY TROUBLES OF WOMEN

Miss Frederick's Letters Show How She Relied on Mrs. Pinkham and Was Cured.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I have a yellow, muddy complexion, feel tired and have bearing down pains. Menstrues have not appeared for three months; sometimes am troubled with a white discharge. Also have kidney and bladder trouble.

I have been this way for a long time, and feel so miserable I thought I would write to you and see if you could do me any good."—Miss EDNA FREDERICK, Troy, Ohio, Aug. 6, 1899.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I have used Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound according to directions, and can say I have not felt so well for years as I do at present. Before taking your medicine a more miserable person you never saw. I could not eat or sleep, and did not care to talk with any one. Now I feel so well I cannot be grateful enough to you for what you have done for me."—Miss EDNA FREDERICK, Troy, Ohio, Sept. 10, 1899.

Backache Cured
"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I write to thank you for the good Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done me. It is the only medicine I have found that helped me. I doctored with one of the best physicians in the city of New York, but received no benefit. I had been ailing for about sixteen years, was so weak and nervous that I could hardly walk; had continued pain in my back and was troubled with leucorrhea. Menstrues were irregular and painful. Words cannot express the benefit I have derived from the use of your medicine. I heartily recommend it to all suffering women."—MRS. MARY BARNESINGER, Windsor, Pa.

She had informed Mrs. Maxwell, however, that her husband had not attempted suicide but had simply started that story in order to create a sensation. WILL ENDORSE THE NOMINEES.

Oakland Republicans to Hold a Monster Mass Meeting.

Arrangements are about completed for the monster mass meeting which will be held at the Exposition Building next Saturday evening to ratify the nominees of the Republican Convention at Philadelphia.

The meeting will be held under the auspices of the Republican Clubs of Alameda county, and it promises to be one of the greatest demonstrations to ratify the party's standard bearers in the history of Republicanism in this State.

Before the meeting the principal thoroughfares will be paraded by a big torch-light procession, headed by the Republican Alliance. The Young Men's Republican Club, the Pondinkey Club and other uniformed and citizen clubs will participate in the parade.

The hall will be decorated for the occasion with American flags and silken banners, and a large portrait of McKinley will be in evidence to create further enthusiasm among the adherents of America's greatest patriot and statesman.

At the hall there will be rousing campaign speeches by Colonel George Stone, chairman of the State Central Committee and chairman of the National League of Republican Clubs; Alden Anderson, president of the California State Republican Clubs; Duncan McKinlay, United States Senator George C. Perkins, Congressman Victor H. Metcalf, William K. Davis and other notables who have worked so long and faithfully in the cause of Republicanism and progress.

Special cars will be run from Livermore, Hayward, Pleasanton and other points in the interior of the county, and a large delegation from the interior, as well as from Berkeley and Alameda, is expected to be present to participate in the ratification.

CASE AGAINST DALTON IS DISMISSED.

Judge Hall Decides in Favor of the Assessor.

The charges brought against County Assessor Henry P. Dalton by the Grand Jury this morning. Both the denunciations to the indictment and the objection to the indictment were overruled.

It was held that the book destroyed by Assessor Dalton was not a public record, but was merely used to assist the Assessor in making his official assessment.

In regard to the accusation charging Mr. Dalton with having wilfully and corruptly failed to place on the assessment roll the names and assessments of personal property taxpayers, the court held that there was no cause of action, in that no specific offense was charged. The charge was made generally, but it was not specified what names or what property or the value of the property had been omitted from the roll.

In rendering his decision Judge Hall reviewed the matter at some length. He said in part:

"I have examined all of the cases submitted in this matter by the prosecution and most of those submitted by the defense. I find that some of the cases have very little bearing upon the matter at issue."

"This indictment, I believe, is drawn under section 113 of the Penal Code, which makes it a felony for a public officer having in his possession or control any public record or book or any document or paper, to change or mutilate that record in any way. It was conceded by both counsel yesterday, I believe, that that section, being taken with the heading, referred only to public records."

"I think there is no question as to that. The question is, continued Judge Hall: 'Was the book destroyed by Mr. Dalton a public record? It is conceded that there was no statute directing the book to be kept. The Assessor was authorized to keep it. I have examined all of the cases submitted by the defense, and I find that it is not necessary to keep such a book, nor is it authorized to keep such a public record. It may be implied that such a book is a public record when the duties of an office are such as require it to be kept. That is shown in one of the cases submitted by the defense, and that case, however, the record kept was the final one and the only one kept. Other cases show that, although it is not expressly authorized by any statute, the proceedings are always considered public records and are admitted in evidence."

"But I have been unable to find any cases where memoranda kept for convenience is held to be a public record. I think that in many cases to make such a book or record is necessary in order to make a final record. The same is done by a court clerk. Will anyone contend that such a book or record is not a public record? Would anyone contend that they should be admissible in evidence? Manifestly not."

Judge Hall reviewed the famous 'lotter case' of Pennsylvania, wherein one Kepply was accused of illegally selling public lands, and stated that it was somewhat similar to the case at bar. The result of that case, he declared, was the passage of a law by the Legislature making the blotter a public record.

"In this case," continued Judge Hall, "the Assessor is authorized to keep only one assessment roll. That roll is turned over to the clerk of the Board of Supervisors. It appears that the assessors' deputies were furnished with various books in which they made notes of assessments. These books were brought to the office and all data were transferred to a book known as the Oakland City Assessment Book for 1899."

"The Assessor destroyed that book to make a blotter a public record. Attorney Fitzgerald interrupted the Court to state that the Assessor's work was not destroyed exactly as alleged in the indictment."

Judge Hall replied that it did not matter, as they were dealing with the charge as it was stated. Continuing he said: "I think that the book destroyed as well as the field books were simply memoranda and not intended either by law or by Mr. Dalton to be kept as records. I do not think that the indictment discloses that the book destroyed was a public record or that any offense was committed."

"I think that the matter attempted to be charged and the matter charged fails to state a cause of action," continued Judge Hall. "It fails to charge either the spirit or intent of an offense. I make this ruling all the more readily because the people are not without remedy in the matter. If they are not satisfied they can carry the matter to the Supreme Court and get a final decision. I am satisfied, however, that my ruling is correct. If I were compelled to sustain the demurrer on a technical point, I would refer the matter to another Grand Jury."

THE ACCUSATION.
"Coming now to the accusation to remove Mr. Dalton from office, I do not think that it is necessary to say very much about that. It was not argued very much yesterday, but the point suggested by Mr. Fitzgerald seems to be well taken. Have you found anything further to combat the objection made, Mr. Allen?"

"No, your honor, I have not," replied the District Attorney. "When I drew the accusation I recognized that there was a serious weakness in it. I simply used the information furnished me by the Grand Jury. I stated all the information that was given me. I do not think that an information drawn that way is expected to be the same as if it was authorized to be drawn by a county law officer."

"An examination of the accusation," continued Judge Hall, "discloses a charge that Mr. Dalton omitted wilfully and corruptly to assess some property, but it is not known what property, what the value of the property is or to whom it should have been assessed. I confess that I have never seen an accusation before which did not in some way indicate what was the particular thing charged. It seems to me that this accusation is very much the same as if it were a charge that a party had entered some building with intent to steal, but not saying what building it was or by whom it was owned. If the owner of the property were not known, that might be alleged and the accusation be valid if there were other facts recited which showed the offense. Some officers may have been committed in this case, but there is nothing to identify it or show that it existed."

"If it did exist it might have been found by a more thorough investigation," said District Attorney Allen. "But I have no excuses to offer on that point."

"I clearly apprehend that the objection is good and should be sustained. That is the order," said Judge Hall.

INVESTIGATING STATE PRINTING OFFICE.

Senator Frank Leavitt came down from Sacramento last night and returned to San Jose to attend a meeting of the State Normal Trustees. Senator Leavitt has been busy for some time investigating the State Printing Office, which is being conducted by the committee.

Senators Shurtliffe and Ashe are his associates on the committee. It will probably require three months to complete the examination, as the entire business of the office back to the beginning of 1895 will have to be gone over. This investigation is not being conducted because of suspected irregularities, but is being made to furnish the Legislature with authoritative information relative to the cost of printing and the expenses of compiling and printing the State text books.
